Local heroes honored with murals at Bay St. Louis' Martin Luther King Park

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

The Hancock County branch of the NAACP on Monday unveiled the first of three new murals at Martin Luther King Park in Bay St. Louis.

Hancock County NAACP president Gregory Barabino said he was thinking about "education" and local "role models" when he thought of adding murals to the wall at the park.

Last year, local artist Marian Glaser painted murals honoring the late Martin Luther King, Jr., and the late U.S. Rep. John Lewis.

"We really take for granted that the children have role models to look up to," Barabino said. "And it's Martin Luther King weekend and we know MLK's story and there's a lot of people that are on the ground doing the work that MLK set the example for. So, I wanted to commemorate, immortalize, and tell the story of what I would consider unsung heroes. People that you hear about, but we really hadn't sat down and discussed their contributions to the community, the impact."

The first mural unveiled on Monday honors the late Coach Willie Ezekiel Bradley, Jr.

His daughter Shalon Bradley said the mural made her "heart happy."

"It's beautiful and it looks just like him," she said. "This is a way to teach the younger generation about him and maybe influence them."

Shalon said that after her father was honorably discharged from the U.S. Army as a military policeman, he began his teaching and coaching career at Valena C. Jones during the 1960-1961 school year.

"After integration, he continued his teaching and coaching career at Bay High School until he retired in 1985," Shalon said. "After his teaching career, he became co-owner of B & W Services, Inc. at Stennis Space Center, where he employed many people from the Hancock, Harrison, and Pearl River county communities for 21 years. He and my mom also owned S & D Inc., where they employed people from those same communities."

Annie, Willie's wife of almost 50 years, said her husband said Bay St. Louis was the "best place for him to live."

"He didn't want to leave Bay St. Louis for better positions at universities," she said.

In addition to coaching, Annie said, her husband also taught history, economics, and driver's education.

He would also host fundraising tournaments.

"He treated all those kids he taught like they were his own," she said.

Annie shared one story about her husband's generosity to his students.

"The local drugstore would let you get what you needed and pay at the end of the month," Annie said.

When the bill came, Annie said she didn't remember ordering anything from the drugstore.

"He would buy medicine for the kids when their parents couldn't afford to," she said. "He taught me a lot about how to be a good person and one of God's children. He mentored those kids and didn't just teach in the classroom."

Barabino said that many of the coach's students remembered a man who would help struggling students and former students said that he would purchase lunch for students who were unable to afford it.

There will be two more murals joining Coach's soon, one dedicated to former Bay St. Louis Police Chief Douglas Williams and the late educator Valena C. Jones.

Barabino said that Williams was Bay St. Louis' first black police chief.

"The fact that you have police relationships issues now in this day and age, and we've always had them, but the fact that we had a young man that was from this community and he ascended to the highest position in the police force, kind of offsets when people say the police can't be trusted. You had

SEA COAST ECHO

At Stennis Space Center on Saturday, NASA conducted a “hot fire” test of the core stage for the agency’s Space Launch System (SLS) rocket that will launch the Artemis I mission to the Moon. The hot fire is the final test of the Green Run series.

The test plan called for the rocket’s four RS-25 engines to fire for a little more than eight minutes – the same amount of time it will take to send the rocket to space following launch.

The team successfully completed the countdown and ignited the engines, but the engines shut down a little more than one minute into the hot fire. Teams are assessing the data to determine what caused the early shutdown, and will determine a path forward.

“Data and preliminary inspections indicate the SLS core stage hardware is in good condition,” the team said in its Artemis Blog on Tuesday. “The team has determined that the shutdown after firing the engines was triggered by test parameters that were intentionally conservative.”

For the test, the 212-foot core stage generated 1.6 million pounds of thrust, while anchored in the B-2 Test Stand at NASA’s Stennis Space Center.

The hot fire test included loading 733,000 pounds of liquid oxygen and liquid hydrogen – mirroring the launch countdown procedure – and igniting the engines.

“Saturday’s test was an important step forward to ensure that the core stage of the SLS rocket is ready for the Artemis I mission, and to carry crew on future missions,” said NASA Administrator Jim Bridenstine, who attended the test. “Although the engines did not fire for the full du-

Debris removal update for city of Diamondhead

SEA COAST ECHO

As of Sunday, January 17, 2021, over 186,000 cubic yards of debris has been removed from the streets of Diamondhead in 35 days of operation. We originally estimated that the city had about 120,000 cubic yards of debris to be removed. We have surpassed that number and are expecting to be over 200,000 cubic yards by the time everything is removed from the streets. Our contractor has been working 11 hours a day, 7 days a week to clean our beautiful city.

As of today, the contractor is almost finished making the first pass on all the 82 miles of streets in Diamondhead. So, this is a tremendous achievement given the amount of debris on the streets from Hurricane Zeta. Every road in the city has been picked up at least one time. If you live on a street that has not been touched, please contact the receptionist at City Hall at 228-222-4626 or email the City Manager at mre-so@diamondhead.ms.gov to provide your address. We will come look at it immediately and get that corrected if it has been accidentally missed.

The contractor has also completed their work with cutting damaged trees and hanging limbs. This debris will be picked up on the 2nd pass.

The contractor will begin the 2nd round on all streets starting Monday. This will take about one week and expected to be completed by Sunday, January 24, 2021. Once the 2nd round is complete, the contractor will make a final pass on all streets to complete their work in Diamondhead. We expect all debris removal work to be completed by February 5, 2021 in the City of Diamondhead.

If you still have debris to put onto the street, residents are reminded to separate their debris into two piles. One is only vegetation, and the other everything else. Vegetative debris goes to one landfill at a much lower cost per cubic yard while C&D debris goes to another landfill for a higher price. If a truck passes that is picking up only vegetative debris, a C&D or mixed pile will be skipped until another truck looking for that type of debris passes. If you have black garbage bags, it is recommended to put those next to your garbage can since Waste Management will pick that up on your regular garbage pick-up day.

Finally, please finish putting any remaining debris on the street by next Sunday, January 24th, so the contractor can finish the work as scheduled. Debris placed within the road right of way after this date will be the responsibility of the homeowner to properly dispose of.

Thank you for your patience during this process. The City Council is currently advertising to pre-arrange the contracts needed for future storms. This way we can begin this clean up work faster. These pre-arranged contracts should all be secured prior to the next hurricane season in June.

Reeves announces 20,000 new doses of COVID-19 vaccine available

ECHO STAFF

Gov. Tate Reeves on Monday announced additional COVID-19 vaccine measures in an effort to keep Mississippians safe and help individuals receive the COVID-19 vaccine.

"Twenty-thousand new appointments - loaded into the system today - are for first doses and can be booked at covid-vaccine.umc.edu OR by calling 877-978-6453," according to a statement from the governor's office issued Monday afternoon.

"Since receiving the first doses of the vaccine, we have administered over 105,000 of the first dose, along with 9,719 second doses - making that many Mississippi-ans fully vaccinated. A total of 114,947 doses have been given across the state."

Reeves said the website has also been expanded to be able to help 6,000 individuals per second get an appointment to receive the vaccine. The call center is also being expanded so callers should have less of a wait time, Reeves said.

"We celebrated a milestone over the weekend, with more than 100,000 Mississippians receiving vaccinations for COVID-19," Reeves said. "That's something we can all be proud of, as we work to get even more access to all."

tlemen has been outstanding, along with their colleagues in the city and the county.”

Reeves’ comments came at a news conference atop the Bay St. Louis seawall, behind The Blind Tiger restaurant and overlooking the city’s municipal harbor. The event was hosted by The Blind Tiger owner Thomas Genin, who also provided food for the attendees after the event.

“Bay St. Louis is such a unique part of our great state,” Reeves said. “Bay St. Louis is known as ‘A Place Apart,’ and that’s exactly what it is,” listing “the growing harbor here behind us,” as well as the Bay’s friendly citizens and the town’s beauty, accessibility and history.

“This is a wonderful city and I’m extremely grateful to be your governor,” he said.

Reeves also gave a shout-out to Waveland Mayor Mike Smith, who changed parties last year, and Diamondhead Mayor Nancy Depreo.

Reeves lauded local leaders’ commitment to “conservative values,” which he said Favre and Seal on Thursday made official by joining the Republican Party.

“I hear from people not only from around this area, but people who come from all around the country — people love Bay St. Louis,” Reeves said.

Favre thanked the governor and everyone at the ceremony Thursday, and said that although his party affiliation had changed, he had not.

“We’ve not changed as a person,” Favre said. “We’re still running on the same values we ran on four years ago, eight years ago.

“I am grateful for the opportunity to serve the people of Bay St. Louis and have worked to improve our city and the accountability of our local government. The principles that have guided my decisions and plans are conservative principles. I’m glad to join the MSGOP and look forward to helping Bay St. Louis continue to grow and thrive.”

Seal said that although he had always previously registered as an Independent for his position, he had finally “realized I need to be part of a bigger group, a bigger organization to make a bigger difference in our city.

“We have drastically improved our fiscal accountability and have followed conservative principles to reinvest revenue into core government functions like public safety, resulting in more competitive salaries for first responders and the coming construction of a state-of-the public safety facility. I look forward to working with the MSGOP to continue positioning Ward 1 and the entire city for growth.”

“Local public offices are the foundation of government, and policies at the local level often have a more significant effect on people’s everyday lives than those put in place by state or federal governments,” Reeves said. “Mayor Favre and Councilman Seal have worked consistently on behalf of the people of Bay St. Louis to build a government that is more accountable and that produces better results for the people it serves. I’m very pleased to welcome them to the Republican Party.”

Other speakers at Thursday’s event include Mississippi GOP Chairman Frank Bordeaux, Hancock County Republican Women’s Club President Starr Chapman and Hancock County Republican Chairman Jason Chiniche.

After the ceremony In Bay St. Louis on Thursday, Reeves traveled to the Harrison County Courthouse in Gulfport to announce that he was appointing District Attorney Joel Smith, Jr., to serve as a Mississippi Court of Appeals judge.

Smith will be sworn in at 11 a.m. Tuesday, Jan. 19 at the Gartin Justice Building in Jackson. Supreme Court Chief Justice Mike Randolph will administer the oath of office.

Smith, 46, has served for the past nine years as district attorney for the Second Judicial District of Harrison, Hancock and Stone counties.

Long-time Assistant District Attorney Crosby Parker was appointed to fill the remainder of Smith’s unexpired term, Reeves said.

Smith will take the position previously held by Sean Tindell of Gulfport, who left the Court to become Commissioner of the Department of Public Safety on June 1, 2020.

“It is very humbling and an honor to join such an esteemed group of judges on the Mississippi Court of Appeals,” Smith said in a press release Thursday. “I look forward to this new chapter in my legal career and I’m excited about this new challenge. I will be ready to hit the ground running and put my experience and energy to work and hopefully make the people of our great state proud.”

Smith served for 11 years as an assistant district attorney before taking office as district attorney in January 2012. Before joining the District Attorney’s office, he practiced corporate defense and premises liability litigation with the firm of Bryant, Clark, Dukes & Blakeslee.

“I have complete confidence in Crosby’s ability not just to do the job but to raise the bar at the DA’s office even higher than it has ever been,” Smith said in a separate statement Thursday. “He has proven that he is a strong leader and litigator. He has been a fantastic partner for me and I have no doubt he will be an excellent DA for our community.”

“I’m honored to be appointed by Governor Reeves to be the District Attorney for Harrison, Hancock and Stone counties,” Parker said in a statement released Thursday. “I want to thank Joel Smith for his leadership over the past decade in building strong relationships with our local, state, and federal law enforcement partners. As district attorney, I promise to work tirelessly to ensure justice is upheld and protected for the citizens of our district and the District Attorney’s Office will continue to work with our law enforcement partners to identify and prosecute those who commit felony crimes in order to protect our communities and ensures that the rights of all are safeguarded.”

Prior to his appointment, Parker served as chief assistant district attorney, where he has handled high profile violent crimes, crimes against children, and corruption cases, among others. In addition, as chief ADA he supervised the office personnel and all aspects of the district’s criminal prosecutions. Before coming to the District Attorney’s Office, Parker served in the United States Air Force as a Judge Advocate General and is currently a lieutenant colonel in the Mississippi Air National Guard as the Staff Judge Advocate for the 172d Airlift Wing in Jackson, MS.

Favre and Seal are both up for reelection this year.

The qualifying period for all Bay St. Louis municipal candidates is Feb. 5. The primary elections are scheduled for April 6, with any necessary runoffs to be held on April 27.

The general election is scheduled June 8.

The city of Diamondhead is also hosting municipal elections this year, and follows the same qualifying, primary, runoff and general election dates.

Clementine Williams is the oldest of Chief William’s six daughters.

She said the mural is a “great honor.”

“I say it’s been a long time coming,” Clementine said. “Everyone that has come to me and said things about daddy, white and black, was that he called it like he saw it,” she said. “He was fair. He was patient. He got to know all the people in his community and was so kind and funny and different. He just did what he had to do as a police chief and they all respected him. I thought he did a fine job. And plus, he came home to a wife and six girls. He was a good daddy and he spoiled all of us in the same way.”

The third mural planned honors Valena C. Jones.

Barabino said that Jones graduated from Dillard University and came back to Bay St. Louis to teach.

“The testimony somebody told me was that all the young ladies from a certain family became teachers and they were inspired by her (Jones),” Barabino said. “I think it was seven of them.”

Glaser is also painting the park’s newest additions.

“I love this community so much,” she said. “It’s a great honor to be asked to do a mural of people who helped this community out.”

The Arts, Hancock County executive director Steve Barney said the group started with the “iconic” piece featuring John Lewis and Martin Luther King, Jr.

“John Lewis was a leader who represented MLK’s values and so now what we’re doing is picking out the community leaders here in Bay St. Louis who lived the values of MLK and we’re able to honor them. So, this is just one of a series. We hope to have an entire wall filled with murals. We see this as a way to reengage with the community and take back the park.”

Barabino said that he hopes the murals will inspire more community members to share stories about local heroes.

He was proud to be an American

My political opinions are rarely shared with the public. My close friends: Republican, Democrat, Libertarian, Independent, etc., know my political leanings and still respect me if my views differ from theirs because I respect them in kind.

My social media pages are for sharing my daily “shake selfie,” funny jokes, or lamenting about my lack of social life and inability to find “normal” men on dating sites. While my friends’ postings that show on my news feed seem to run the gauntlet of far-left and far-right messages, I quickly scroll past them without commenting because their thoughts and opinions are just that – theirs – and who am I to tell someone they are “wrong” just because I don’t agree with them?

Today, Wednesday, Jan. 20, 2021, our country, as it does every four years on this date, will inaugurate the President of the United States for a four-year term. If the president on Jan. 19 of that year has won another four-year term, he (or she!) would still be inaugurated at noon EST on Jan. 20. This year’s transition sees much division within our country. I used to believe that, as Americans, we respect each other and use our differences to make our country a true “land of the free and home of the brave”. The actions of some of my fellow Americans who attended the January 6th rally in our nation’s capitol showed me how naïve I have been. There were many fine American citizens at that rally who were there to peacefully show support of our 45th president – including a friend of mine from New Mexico. The others.....well, not so peaceful or, in my opinion, patriotic.

I am not using this space to place blame, spread anger or tell anyone they are wrong to feel differently than me. Instead I want to share with you a story – a story about one of the most patriotic Americans I know.

While I had met Pal Nagy a month or two earlier, my kids met him for the first time in March of 2001. He and his wife Cathy had driven from Colorado Springs, CO, to Clovis, NM, to see their son Paul for his birthday. Paul and I had started dating the previous fall and I had already met his family during a weekend trip to Colorado a few weeks before their visit to New Mexico. They came to my home for dinner, arriving with bags of Easter candy and gifts for my children and a jar of black jellybeans for me. Pal loved spending the day with my kids, who were

The saying goes that tough times bring out the best and worst in people. The COVID-19 pandemic is no exception, and consumers need to be wary of potential fraud related to the vaccine as it is rolled out.

Those who have not yet scheduled an appointment to receive their first dose will be waiting another month. On Jan. 15, the Mississippi State Department of Health reported that appointments may be limited until late January, as most of the state’s available vaccine inventory had already been scheduled or distributed.

A new shipment is expected by February. Residents 65 and over and people with chronic health conditions who have not already made appointments will be able to schedule their first doses at that time.

Becky Smith, a family financial management specialist with the Mis-issippi State University Extension Service, said two of the most important facts to keep in mind about the vaccine is that it will be free of charge, and it will require an appointment to receive.

“Scammers never miss an opportunity to capitalize on the latest crisis, and they are constantly adapting their methods to swindle as many people as possible,” she said. “The rule of thumb in this situation is to not trust anyone who contacts you offering a vaccine, and be on the lookout for different ways they may try to do that.”

No legitimate organization will ask for Social Security, credit card or bank account information.

“Phishers may try to contact unsuspecting people through phone calls, texts, emails or social media,” Smith said. “There is a good chance that someone trying to sell you a vaccine is really just trying to steal your money or identity. You will not have to pay out of pocket to receive the vaccine. Anyone who receives these types of solicitations should report them to the state attorney general’s office.

“No health department or Medicare representative will call or visit you unprompted to help you schedule an appointment,” she said. “When the next shipment arrives, you will have to schedule one online or over the phone to get your vaccine.”

No one can pay for early access to the vaccine or have shots delivered to their residence, and any such offers are fraudulent.

“You should get your vaccination only from your doctor, a hospital or clinic, or a licensed pharmacy. There will be no do-it-yourself versions of the vaccine,” said MSU Extension health specialist David Buys. “Do not respond to emails, phone calls or online ads from people or organizations you don’t know who are trying to sell or send you a vaccine, and don’t click on any links they send you, as those could download viruses on your device.”

The federal government has paid for all the doses that will be distributed in the U.S.

town with a history of producing lumber. They are bringing new technology and will employ 135 employees to fully utilize the forests in the surrounding area.

Forest management and conservation can reverse the poor forest conditions we are witnessing in many parts of Mississippi and help wildlife thrive. Managing forests, which includes harvesting, makes them resilient and able to withstand fire, pests, and diseases. Many wildlife managers consider active forest management the best solution to meet the habitat requirements of the largest variety of species. Forest management reduces canopy closure and creates young forest habitat, which provides food, nesting, and hiding places for wildlife. It protects stream health and fish, drinking water, and coastal marsh habitats.

Without the value that companies like IFG can provide to landowners, logging contractors, and truck drivers, we are likely to see less forest management, which will exacerbate the problems of wildfire, lead to further degradation of forest health, endanger more species, and result in poor air and water quality. We are also likely to see increased land conversion to non-forested uses and the loss of the basic capacity to ensure we have healthy, resilient forests important for a wide variety of ecological benefits, not to mention the economic benefits to rural America, especially in an economically depressed state like Mississippi.

charge you money for the vaccine, that may be a sign they are not a distributor you can trust,” Buys said. “However, some clinics may charge to give you the vaccine shot (not for the vaccine itself), so not all fees associated with the vaccine are suspicious.”
Two doses of vaccine are necessary to be protected against COVID-19. Patients who have already received their first dose should still be able to schedule their second.
The manufacturers for the vaccine shipments received by Mississippi providers are Moderna and Pfizer, but others may be approved.

“The COVID-19 vaccines are not interchangeable, so if you get a Pfizer dose the first time, your second dose must also be from Pfizer,” Buys said. “You will receive a reminder card, and you may also receive a text message notice.”

a few years ago is now resulting in a great project—one that will create good-paying jobs for many Mississippians, provide a significant economic impact to the state, and will benefit the conservation and management of our forests. And to top it off, it is owned by a remarkable individual who has a concern for conservation and the communities where he works. I don’t have all the answers, but the more people like Marc Brinkmeyer we have in Mississippi, the better.

Wildlife Mississippi supports IFG’s effort to build a mill in Lumberton and looks forward to partnering with them to further conserve our region’s forests. I also would like to thank the Lamar County Board of Supervisors, the City of Lumberton, the Hattiesburg Area Development Partnership, the Mississippi Development Authority, and the Pearl River Community College for their confidence in Marc and IFG. All of our combined efforts will go a long way to continuing to make Mississippi a better place to live, work, and raise a family.

also leaves behind a lot of stuff that her family doesn't know what to do with. Some will say that Goodwill was closed in observance of New Year's Day, but Dawn's family knows that it was really in grievance of losing their best customer. She loved to do retail therapy anywhere she could find a bargain. She shopped for people whether they wanted or needed it. Dawn had a motto "Fill up the house, give it away, Start over." She was what some would call a master cook in the kitchen. She believed in good ingredients, making enough for an army and overcooking everything. Her family learned to love the taste of charcoal. She enjoyed Bingo, Casinos and garage sales. She didn't like rules and being told what to do but she had a knack for telling you her opinion. Right, wrong or indifferent- you always knew where you stood with Dawn. She made her home grand central for her kids and she loved every minute of it. It was understood that Dawn was going to be loud, crazy and funny wherever she went. All whom knew and loved her dearly, will never forget her charm, wit and her love for them. A Celebration of Life will be held at a later date. Trinity Funeral Services is honored to assist Dawn's family during this difficult time and asks that you keep them in your thoughts and prayers over the coming days.

ELIOT JAY WOLFF

Eliot Jay Wolff of Diamondhead, Mississippi, died on January 6, one month after being diagnosed with esophageal cancer. He was 64 years old.

Known as “EJ,” he was a passionate golfer who enjoyed music, walks, family life, dogs and casinos. He was a pit manager at the former Bayou Caddy’s Jubilee Casino in Waveland, Mississippi, in May 1994, when the Chevrolet Camaro he was driving to work was obliterated by a drunk driver. Ironically, the other driver was coming from Bayou Caddy’s. Suffering severe brain damage and other injuries, EJ relocated with his pregnant wife and two-year-old twins to his home city of Denver, Colorado, for treatment at the world-renowned Craig Rehabilitation Center. He continued recovery at Willis-Knight in Shreveport. From there, the family moved back to Las Vegas, where they had lived and worked before.

EJ and Susan Wolff were granted a divorce in 2002. He then lived in the Cocoa Beach area of Florida before settling in Diamondhead in 2017.

EJ is survived by his beloved partner of eight years, Grace Callahan; daughter Jaelyn Wolff of New Orleans; daughter Taylor Wolff of Las Vegas; son Ryan Wolff of Henderson, NV; father Herbert Wolff of Fearington Village, NC; and sister Paula Wolff of Denver.

JAMIE TEMPLE

Jamie Temple, owner of the Buttercup on Second Street in Bay St. Louis and former owner of The Phoenix bar in New Orleans, lost his year-long battle with cancer on January 4. He was 63.

Jamie was raised in Union, NJ, where he graduated from Union High School. Shortly after graduation he moved to San Francisco, where he worked as a bartender, then joined the US Coast Guard and was stationed in New Orleans. He fell in love with the city and remained there after his discharge from the Armed Services.

In New Orleans, Jamie owned The Phoenix bar. He was a founder of the New Orleans AIDS Task Force and was one of the first to hold a fundraiser for that organization. He also volunteered with Buzzy’s Boys, a group that helps AIDS victims seeking guidance, financial support and medications.

Jamie was a longtime activist, fighting to stop police discrimination against the LGBTQ community. Empathetic toward people who have fallen on hard times, Jamie once invited a person off the streets and into his home; the man later said, “Jamie saved my life that night.” He regularly opened his businesses for fundraisers and meetings, happily emceeding any event.

Jamie also supported the leather community in New Orleans and hosted numerous fundraisers. He was Grand Marshall for Southern Decadence and founded the city’s largest street party to kick off the festival, “Knight of the Black Mask.” He was also an active member of the Lords of Leather Mardi Gras Krewe. Jamie loved the city and enjoyed volunteering as a tour guide in the French Quarter for the National Park Service.

Jamie moved to Waveland in 2005 just weeks before Hurricane Katrina, purchasing the Buttercup on Second Street in Bay St. Louis, which at the time was a bakery and ice cream shop. Both the bakery and his home were severely damaged by the storm, leaving him living in a trailer for more than a year. Undaunted, his vision transformed the battered Buttercup into one of Old Town’s most successful restaurants. Jamie could often be found pouring coffee and sharing jokes with his loyal customers, soon to be friends. He was also truly beloved by his employees.

In his spare time, Jamie also enjoyed acting in local theater.

Those we love remain with us for love itself lives on, and cherished memories never fade because a loved one's gone.

Those we love can never be more than a thought apart, far as long as there is memory, they'll live on in the heart.

will help us plan the right path forward for verifying this new core stage is ready for flight on the Artemis I mission.”

The Green Run series of tests began in January 2020, when the stage was delivered from NASA’s Michoud Assembly Facility in New Orleans and installed in the B-2 test stand at Stennis. The team completed the first of the eight tests in the Green Run series before standing down in March due to the ongoing coronavirus pandemic. After resuming work in May, the team worked through the remaining tests in the series, while also standing down periodically as six tropical storms or hurricanes affected the Gulf Coast. Each test built upon the previous test with increasing complexity to evaluate the stages’ sophisticated systems, and the hot fire test that lit up all four engines was the final test in the series.

“Stennis has not witnessed this level of power since the testing of Saturn V stages in the 1960s,” said

Stennis Center Director Rick Gilbrech. “Stennis is the premier rocket propulsion facility that tested the Saturn V first and second stages that carried humans to the Moon during the Apollo Program, and now, this hot fire is exactly why we test like we fly and fly like we test. We will learn from today’s early shutdown, identify any corrections if needed, and move forward.”

In addition to analyzing the data, teams also will inspect the core stage and its four RS-25 engines before determining the next steps. Under the Artemis program, NASA is working to land the first woman and the next man on the Moon in 2024. SLS and the Orion spacecraft that will carry astronauts to space, along with the human landing system and the Gateway in orbit around the Moon, are NASA’s backbone for deep space exploration.

tors. There were also 61 patients hospitalized with suspected COVID infections.

“Anyone with symptoms of fever, severe cough or severe chest pains – especially those who are older or in poor health – should make arrangements for testing with their doctor or one of the many healthcare providers now performing testing,” according to MSDH. “Healthcare providers can assess your health history and symptoms, and perform testing for COVID-19 as needed. MSDH is also helping conduct free drive-up testing sites in many parts of the state. Always call ahead to the testing provider for instructions on safely being examined before you visit for your test.”

State Health Officer Dr. Thomas Dobbs is still recommending that Mississippi residents curtail social gatherings as much as possible.

“Due to rapidly rising COVID-19 cases, all residents of Mississippi should avoid any social gathering that includes individuals outside of the immediate family or household,” Dobbs said. “MSDH recommends that Mississippians only participate in work, school or other absolutely essential activities, and avoid gatherings such as social events, sporting events, in-person church services, and weddings and funerals unless they involve only close family (preferably outdoors).”

Additionally, according to MSDH, “Home isolation is mandatory if you have tested positive for COVID-19 by order of the State Health Officer. (If you are awaiting results of routine testing not related to exposure, you may return to work and follow the safety guidance of your employer.)

“Quarantine is mandatory for household members of someone who has COVID-19. Home quarantine permits working under certain circumstances.”

the same ages as his two granddaughters back in Colorado. He would joke around with them, and make them laugh, even though they had a hard time understanding him when he talked. Even though Pal had been in the United States since 1956 and was fluent in the English language, he still spoke with a heavy accent, especially when he was excited.

Born shortly before Hitler’s invasion of Hungary during WW II, Pal lived first under German occupation and then Soviet occupation. During the Hungarian Revolution in 1956, which started as a student protest against the Soviet occupation, he was arrested three times trying to escape over the border. He was assisted by the underground and finally was successful in leaving the country. At the age of 17, he left his family and fled the country of his birth. On Dec. 31, 1956, he arrived in America and started his life of freedom. Eighteen months passed before the American Red Cross was able to get word to his parents that he was safe and in America.

A family in New Jersey sponsored Pal as a refugee, and shortly after his arrival, he got a job working as an usher at a movie theatre - and that was how he learned to speak English. One of my favorite stories about his adjustment to living in America, was that he would always order scrambled eggs at a diner he frequented daily because that was the only item on the menu he knew the words for in English. At some point he changed his name to the more American spelling – Paul.

He was mistakenly drafted into the Army in 1959 and shipped off to Germany. When the Army discovered their mistake, they were going to discharge him and send him back to the U.S., but he asked to be able serve anyway as he had nothing else to do. He was active duty for two years, most of them spent in Germany, and he was in the reserves for two more years. Paul became a U.S. citizen in 1962.

In 1977 Paul moved his wife and their two children to Colorado Springs, where he worked at the Western Museum of Mining and Industry as an artisan until the late 1980s, when he went to work at the United States Air Force Academy. He took pride in his job and received numerous awards for his service at the academy. Visiting dignitaries and heads of state received plaques created by Paul, and more of his work still hangs on the walls of the Academy.

Paul Nagy II passed away in September of 2006. I was his daughter-in-law for only five years, but I feel like I knew him forever. I never knew his political leanings – but he always voted. He raised his children to appreciate all that being an American had to offer, freedoms that we take for granted every day. He celebrated every Fourth of July, and the room in his home that was his “office” was decorated in a red, white, and blue theme.

Paul was proud to be an American. He worked hard to be able to build a house for his family, a home his wife still lives in today. He encouraged his son and daughter to further their education and get a college degree – something that he would never have dreamed possible for himself as a young man. He worked hard to buy his first “luxury” car – and the fact that the seats could heat up, well that was just the icing on his American Dream.

ration, the team successfully worked through the countdown, ignited the engines, and gained valuable data to inform our path forward.”

Support teams across the Stennis test complex provided high-pressure gases to the test stand, delivered all operational electrical power, supplied more than 330,000 gallons of water per minute to protect the test stand flame deflector and ensure the structural integrity of the core stage, and captured data needed to evaluate the core stage performance.

“Seeing all four engines ignite for the first time during the core stage hot fire test was a big milestone for the Space Launch System team” said John Honeycutt, the SLS program manager at NASA’s Marshall Space Flight Center in Huntsville, Alabama. “We will analyze the data, and what we learned from today’s test

STAND UP FOR WHAT IS RIGHT

By GARY ANDREWS

Many times, our decisions are made regarding the frame of mind we are in. The question is: Are we always in the right frame of mind to make realistic decisions according to what God would have us to do instead of what the world wants us to do?

Have you tuned into the world or have you tuned into Jesus? Life on earth is short and based on your conversion experience eternal life can be your reward.

Have the courage to set the trend. If you follow the world's leadership, you are losing sight of the straight and narrow road Jesus has laid out for you.

Don't let worldly pleasures misguide you or keep you from doing what is right. To be a leader in society you have a goal in life, a bright outlook, and a fellowship.

Even though it is unpopular to stand for Christ and have good ethical morals, people will respect you in the long run. Satan is only for the minute and the quick satisfaction. He will lift you to a great high and allow you to feel good about yourself and then drop you like a ton of bricks.

Even though it is unpopular to stand for the Christian values, you will be surprised how well you are respected by your peers for your decisions. Moral integrity and ethical values are God given attributes that will always gain favor, among others. Even the simple and weak minded will desire what you have if you will stand firm in your faith and do what is right.

Make yourself accountable to God as Jesus made Himself accountable to the Father. Jesus prayed for guidance and strength from the Father and we should do the same each day in every situation. Jesus was the great example of how a world full of sin will treat you. Even Pilate, and his wife, conformed to what the world wanted. Both people wanted Jesus freed but would not disappoint the world and allowed Him to be crucified.

Stand up for what you know is right and morally correct. Don't allow the world to lead you in directions and decisions that you know are not based on Christian values.

Remember what Jesus said to His disciples which in turn speak to us of today.

John 15:5-8 "I am the vine; you are the branches. If a man remains in me and I in him, he will bear much fruit; apart from me you can do nothing. If anyone does not remain in me, he is like a branch that is thrown away and withers; such branches are picked up, thrown into the fire and burned. If you remain in me and my words remain in you, ask whatever you wish, and it will be given you. This is to my Father's glory, that you bear much fruit, showing yourselves to be my disciples."

Prayer: Thank you Jesus for another day of life. I pray that today and everyday of my life on earth will be under your guidance and influence. Amen.

Basketball hits homestretch before division tourneys

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

The area high school basketball teams have about three weeks before they turn their attention to the respective division tournaments that set the stage for the state playoffs. The Saint Stanislaus Rock-a-chaws (1-14, 0-4) dropped two games last week. On Tuesday, the Rocks fell 54-37 to Vancleave. The Rocks never led in the game but pulled to within a point 9-8 on Nour Tayara’s basket with 5:04 remaining in the opening period. But, that would be as close as they would get. The Bulldogs took a 18-12 advantage after the first period and pushed that to a 31-21 lead at intermission. In the first half, the Rocks shot 5-for-15 from the stripe. Byron Krohn led the Rocks with 15 points followed by Tayara and Leo Seal with eight points each. Kade Medlin led Vancleave with 16 points.

On Friday the Rocks stumbled against St. Patrick 54-37 in a strange contest ending. The Rocks led early but fell behind 10-8 to close the first period. St. Patrick maintained a slim 18-15 lead at intermission. The St. Patrick fan base repeatedly called out the scorer table and clock operator for no apparent reason in the third and fourth periods. The officials finally stopped the action with about four minutes remaining in the game to warn the Irish fan base of expulsion from the gym if they did not comply. At the point of stoppage, the Irish held a 50-35 advantage over the Rocks. SSC head coach Aaron Dunklin commented, “The players gave tremendous effort. We were able to hold their top player to just two points but they hurt us down low with Drew Roth. We are searching for a recipe for winning. I am proud of them battling. We have four division games left before the tournament. We have to find a rhythm heading into that.” Ja’Kobe Cameron led SSC with 12 points followed by Tayara with 10 points. Drew Roth paced St. Patrick with 28 points. In other recent boys basketball action, the Pass Christian Pirates (9-5, 2-1) fell to Moss Point on January 12 45-39 and beat Vancleave 49-27 on January 15. Bay High (1-12, 1-4) dropped their game with Moss Point 49-28 on January 15 while Hancock (5-11, 0-2) dropped games to Picayune 49-47 on January 12 and Harrison Central 62-45 on January 15. In recent girls basketball action, Bay High (4-10, 1-1) lost to d’Iberville 30-27 on January 12 while OLA (1-7, 0-3) dropped their game with West Marion 72-37 on January 15. The Hancock Lady Hawks (13-5, 0-3) dropped games against Gulfport 36-34 in overtime on January 12 and Harrison Central 43-40 on January 15.

Rocks top Bay 2-1 to win Division 8-4A title

BY JOSEPH W. GEX, II
STAFF WRITER

With the state playoffs beginning next week for soccer, the season is now down to crunch time. And, that could not have been more evident than in Friday’s game between Bay High and Saint Stanislaus. The Rocks (10-2-1, 7-0) topped the Tigers 2-1 in a game that resembled games of past years. Each team displayed aggressive offense at times and stifling defense with outstanding saves, as well. Michael Cabell put the Rocks up 1-0 in the first half. Grant Sides added some insurance with a quick rebound shot with 33 minutes remaining in the second half.

The Tigers (5-2, division) began to apply pressure up front and eventually Aidan McKeon ripped the net from about 20 yards out with a shot in the upper right 90 that was practically indefensible to cut the lead to 2-1 which also made the final score. Bay High head coach Kelly Ross commented, “I was very proud of the effort in the game. We had several chances to possibly pull out the win but we just didn’t take advantage of all the opportunities. Trevor Bordelon made some big saves for us tonight. Now, we finish out the season and focus on the playoffs.” The Tigers will be the #2-seed in the Class 4A state playoffs. SSC head coach Zach Villarbua stated, “We battled very hard in this game. This meeting between the twontteams was different than the first one. We made it more difficult on ourselves because we had opportunities and did not take advantage of them. Credit to Bay High for the adjustments they made coming into this game. Heading into the playoffs, we need to face some adversity. We are thrilled with the win and the opportunity to be division champions this year.” The Rocks will be the #1-seed from Division 8-4A in the state playoffs. Last week, the Rocks beat Moss Point 9-0 on Tuesday. In girls soccer, Pass Christian beat Bay High 1-0 on Tuesday and Vancleave 2-1 on Thursday.

Shore Thing: Health and Maintenance

I guess I done went and got old? I am writing this story a day after having knee surgery, laid up in my recliner. It was a minor meniscus repair, and I should be back on the water in no time. I can now add bad knee to a bad neck, and a bad back. I’m all but certain the last couple of decades on the water have been the major contributing factor to my body falling apart. I was lucky enough to get my procedure done in our “slow time” of the year. The last day I fished, right before the surgery, I made a list of stuff that needed attention. Myself, the boat, and my gear haven’t had much of break this year. In addition to my knee, I need to get rods repaired, upholstery stitched, a leaking hydraulic system checked, and my trailer serviced. And those are just the major issues. There is still plenty of fishing to do this year. However, between the frigid temps, cold fronts and windy days there are typically more days on land than on the water. It’s during this “down time” that we need to take care of ourselves and our “stuff”. This is a fantastic time to get yourself looked at. Go see the dermatologist, eye doctor, and or get your annual check ups done. If you have any issues internally or externally on your body(and mind), go get em taken care of. It’s also a perfect time of year to get your reels, engines, trolling motors, electronics, safety gear, towing vehicles, and batteries serviced. If you or your gear are not in good shape, than fishing is gonna be tough in the coming months.

We see it happen EVERY SINGLE YEAR. People will wait till that first warm day in Spring to send their boats, trolling motors, engines, reels, etc into the repair shops. Get yourself and your stuff taken care of now. If the fishing the last couple of weeks is any indications of what's coming, yall better start getting ready. The red-fishing has been some of the best we have seen in years. The sheepshead bite has been off the charts. The water has been very salty and clean too. I think we have really good things coming our way in the next few months. You and your stuff need to be ready. Benjamin Franklin put it best when he said, "an
